Ohio's cities bloom again

Thanks to billions in investment and years of work by both the public and private sectors, Ohio's three largest cities are each seeing a downtown renaissance that is bringing new vitality to the urban core, with benefits that ripple throughout the cities.

The "Three Cs" — Cincinnati, Cleveland and Columbus — collectively have invested some $10 billion in downtown development.

Akron to study need for student housing

City leaders put 120-day moratorium on new projects following glut of new campus

By Rick Armon
Beacon Journal staff writer

Published: April 2, 2013 - 11:32 PM

With downtown Akron becoming a hot spot for student-housing projects, the city is launching a study to see if more developments are really needed.

City leaders also agreed this week not to hand out any tax incentives or to rezone properties for new student housing until the next four months while the analysis is conducted.

5 REALITIES for Northeast Ohio

1. Taxpayers are burdened by costly fragmentation across our local/regional governments.
2. Cultural and natural resources are under stress.
3. Rising infrastructure costs exceed our means to pay.
4. Land use patterns affect local and regional budgets.
5. Our overall economy needs to be stronger.
